ROYAL WARRANT HOLDERS.

DEBRETTS

ALPHABETICAL LIST OF ROYAL WARRANT HOLDERS.

[This list includes the names of individuals, firms, and veterinary surgeons, who hold existing Warrants of appointment to H.M. King George V, to H.M. Queen Mary, to H.M. the late Queen Alexandra, to H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, as well as to Their late Majesties Queen Victoria and King Edward VII. (endorsed for present Reign). It is neither official nor necessarily exhaustive, and the body of Warrant Holders is subject to frequent alterations, Warrants being liable to become void by death, retirement, or bankruptcy of the individuals, partners, or directors in whose names they are granted, and also by change of designation of firms.]

N.B.—Use of the Royal Arms and Insignia or the Badge of the Heir Apparent for trading purposes is STRICTLY confined to firms HOLDING Royal Warrants of appointment. These Warrants, however, do not carry the right to fly the Royal Standard, to fly the Prince of Wales Standard, or to the use of the word "Royal," and by Clause 68 of the Trades Marks Act 1905 any person who without proper Royal authority uses in connection with any trade, business, calling, or profession, the Royal Arms, or any device, emblem, or title, may be restrained by injunction or interdict from continuing so to use the same. At the demise of the Crown, Warrants become void, and the right to the use of the Royal Arms in this connection lapses.

† " " " " " " " " Queen Mary.

* " " " " " " " " Prince of Wales.

† " " " " " " " " the late King Edward VII (renewed as such for present Reign).

* " " " " " " " " the late Queen Victoria (renewed as such for present Reign)

(Formerly "The Merchant Seamen's Orphan Asylum", SNARESBROOK.

Patron—H.M. THE KING.

President—H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G., &c.

Established 1827 for the Board, Maintenance and Education of the Orphan Children of British Sailors (Captains, Officers and Men) from all parts of the world, of whom 4,104 have been received, and of the 317 at present in the schools, no fewer than 138 are the Orphans of men who died violent deaths.

During the war, upwards of 700 men who had been brought up in the Institution were commanding and officering Merchant vessels which rendered such inestimable services to the country in the time of its greatest need.

Nearly sixty of the children resident lost their fathers through enemy action, and were admitted immediately on application. Help is urgently needed, and fullest information will be gladly furnished.

The Orphanage helps fatherless and other necessitous children from all parts of the country and the Dominions, without restriction as to class or creed. Boys and girls are admitted at all ages between infancy and 11 years of age, and are cared for until 15. During the past 170 years over 7,000 have been received. Over 360 are now resident, and others await vacancies. More annual subscribers are needed. Out of £16,000 required annually, only £6,000 are assured. The balance must be raised by donations. Legacies are a useful means of helping.

PLEASE INCLUDE THE SCHOOL IN YOUR WILL

Annual Report sent on request, and the School may be visited by interested friends.

Forms of application for the admission of children, and all needful information, may be had of the Secretary, FRED. J. ROBINSON, A.C.I.S., 71, Cheapside, London, E.C.2.

The Fascination of Craft-work

FOR many years great attention has been paid to planning out the "day's work" for a child, almost ignoring the provision of some form of handwork as a recreation, which has doubtless been the means of teaching children to crave for excitement and entertainment by going to cinemas, dances, etc. We live in restless times, the result of the Great Upheaval, and although everyone has become more or less absorbed in a stream which rushes continually, there are times when we long to sit down quietly somewhere and do something. The outcome of this desire has been the almost universal revival of Craft-work. Its forms are legion, and are too well known to need enumeration; there is something to appeal to old and young, and joy to be brought to many an invalid in brightening many dull days through the medium of the "colourful" materials one can employ. No present is more welcome than a hand-made one, and a glance through the following pages will fire enthusiasm and, we hope, be helpful. Readers will find that by the aid of the miniature directory appended, they can purchase charming gifts, or should they feel so inclined, take lessons, and having purchased materials, make equally charming gifts themselves.

Apart from the value of Craft-work as a recreation, it has been found of great curative value in the treatment of Neurasthenia and marked improvement has been noted in schools for mentally defective children where crafts form an important part of the day's work.

Busy children and grown-ups are always the happiest, and the wise mother will train her children to use their hands and fashion things modelled from nature.

Exhibitions of Craft-work are held from time to time, and we strongly advise a visit, as there is sure to be something to please the most fastidious.

The West End.

IN the West End are situated a large number of the most famous streets, not only of London, but of the world. Here is the fashionable shopping centre of the Metropolis, the like of which is not to be found in any other Capital city.

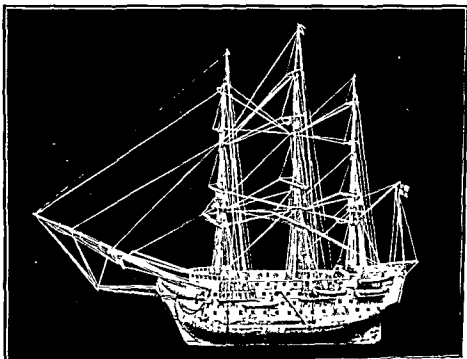

The Strand, which in many respects is Westminster's most historic street, now lined with shops, formerly contained the palaces of peers, the gardens of those living on the southern side stretching down to the edge of the river, the width of which, in earlier times, can be judged from the fact that the nobility used to step ashore from their barges at the watergate at the foot of Buckingham Street.

Piccadilly, the origin of whose name has puzzled many and has not yet been definitely established, has in the past been the home of many famous men, including Lord Palmerston, Lord Byron, and the Earl of Burlington; but its links with former days are now fast disappearing.

Bond Street, named after Sir Thomas Bond, a member of a rich firm of bankers and merchants, was originally residential, but it has been a street of shops for a century or more

One of the most fashionable of all the shopping streets is Regent Street, which is also one of the newest. Its construction was commenced in 1813 by John Nash, the architect, and, being Crown property, it was named after George IV., then Prince Regent.

Oxford Street, which crosses Regent Street at its upper end, is famous as the former road to Tyburn, along which the hangman's procession used to pass on its way to the gallows, which stood not far from the site now occupied by Marble Arch. With its magnificent shops and famous stores, it presents a very different aspect to-day.

BEXHILL-ON-SEA.

MANY distinctive features as a seaside health resort are claimed for Bexhill. A modern town, it possesses such advantages of recent creation as a tastefully planned sea front, elegant streets, dainty pleasure grounds and first-class hotels and public buildings of imposing architecture. Built on the eastern shores of Sussex, it enjoys an open position facing south and a climate distinguished by its remarkably exhilarating qualities. It has one of the highest sunshine records in the country with a mild and even temperature. Visited at all periods of the year for its health-giving elements, Bexhill is largely patronised during the summer holiday season, June to September, particularly by families and by those who are seeking rest and relaxation in bright and beautiful surroundings. The shore consists of beach and sand, the conditions being ideal for bathing, fishing and boating. Bexhill offers a wide but select choice of amusements, music being one of the principal attractions. The Corporation maintains an orchestra all the year round, military bands being engaged for the summer. There are three golf courses, all within easy access, besides several tennis grounds, and bowling greens, and facilities for croquet, hockey, badminton, etc. The town is within 90 minutes' train journey from London, while the road route is through some of the most beautiful parts of the South-Eastern counties. The neighbourhood is rich in castles, abbeys and other monuments of history. For residential purposes Bexhill could not be surpassed. The rates are exceptionally low—7s. 7d. in the £ per annum.

"Long shalt thou laugh thine enemies to scorn, Proud as Phœnicia, Queen of Watering Places."

So wrote Horace Smith, and so Brighton remains to-day—
"Queen of Watering Places."

To-day Brighton caters for all classes. Its easy accessibility to London and the Continent gives it a cosmopolitan air not possessed by any other resort in the Kingdom. Its all-the-year round season permits of an alternation of different classes of visitors at different seasons of the year. During July, August and early September it is the popular resort of the multitude. At other periods of the year it becomes the rendezvous of fashion and devotes itself to catering for the needs of the more leisured class seeking health from the abundant sunshine and sea breezes, and pleasure in the great variety of sport, recreations, and entertainments and other amenities that the town provides. At such seasons not even the Riviera can offer greater attractions.

The town has all the advantages of an ideal situation, good climate, first-class social amenities, including admirably equipped hotels and boarding houses, an excellent train service, and wise local administration. It is the key to the South Downs and the Sussex Weald—some of the finest motoring and hunting country in England.

Further particulars can be obtained from the Director, Corporation Publicity Department, Royal Pavilion, Brighton, who will be pleased to forward enquirers a copy of the attractive illustrated official Guide, and to supply any other information.

BUDLEIGH SALTERTON.

BUDLEIGH SALTERTON, which has a warm but bracing climate, is rapidly gaining fame as a health and pleasure resort. It possesses a very fine sea front and there are splendid walks over the cliffs to Littleham and Ladram Bay. Fine river and sea fishing can be enjoyed and there is also a magnificent 18-hole golf course, on which many important contests are held, and which is said to be the finest seaside course on the south coast. Tennis can also be indulged in throughout the year on the hard courts. The East Devon Hounds meet in the neighbourhood.

In the neighbourhood there are many places of interest to which excursions can be made, a favourite one being to Hayes Barton, where Sir Walter Raleigh first saw the light of day.

BUDLEIGH SALTERTON, which has a warm but bracing climate, is rapidly gaining fame as a health and pleasure resort. It possesses a very fine sea front and there are splendid walks over the cliffs to Littleham and Ladram Bay. Fine river and sea fishing can be enjoyed and there is also a magnificent 18-hole golf course, on which many important contests are held, and which is said to be the finest seaside course on the south coast. Tennis can also be indulged in throughout the year on the hard courts. The East Devon Hounds meet in the neighbourhood.

In the neighbourhood there are many places of interest to which excursions can be made, a favourite one being to Hayes Barton, where Sir Walter Raleigh first saw the light of day.

CLEVEDON.

CLEVEDON, situated on the Southern side of the Bristol Channel, is a thoroughly delightful resort both in Winter and Summer. Its natural charm and beauty have remained unspoilt, and it is almost unique amongst English watering places in its absence of artificiality. It enjoys a mild but invigorating climate with a maximum of sunshine, and this, together with the wonderful clear atmosphere, combines to make Clevedon famous as a holiday and health resort.

Clevedon is well equipped for Tennis, Golf, Cricket, Motor-Boating, or Fishing, while there are many charming walks for those who care for the beauties of the wonderful views to be obtained.

CONWAY.

CONWAY, which lies between wooded hills and the estuary of one of the most beautiful rivers in Wales, is an historic borough with an ancient Castle, of which the Mayor is still the Constable. It has a climate which for geniality and equableness could not be surpassed by any other popular resort, and has the additional advantage of bracing mountain air.

The river affords splendid anchorage, and in the summer scarcely a day passes without some yacht finding its way over the bar. The Conway Sailing Club has a large membership, and the yachting delights of the estuary are widely recognised.

Historic Conway, Sunny Deganwy and Llandudno Junction in the BOROUGH OF CONWAY.

CONWAY is an ancient and historic town situated at the mouth of the River Conway—the most beautiful river in North Wales. It has grown in public favour on account of its central position for visiting the numerous beauty spots in the far-famed Vale of Conway and the Mountains of Snowdonia.

During the whole of the year it has excellent railway facilities, and there is a convenient motor-bus service to all places of interest in the neighbourhood, and the angler, the golfer, the antiquary, the artist, and the pedestrian may each follow his heart's desire. There is ample accommodation for visitors.

In a word, Conway offers all the advantages which the intelligent holiday-maker can desire, and incontestably is the ideal centre for all visitors to North Wales.

The places of interest in the town itself include the Castle (built in 1284 by Edward I during his conquest of Wales), the Parish Church, evolved from the conventual building founded by the Cistercian Monks in 1186, though it has undergone numerous changes in the course of time; and Plas Mawr, built in 1576, one of the finest specimens of Tudor domestic architecture.

The rising watering-place of Deganwy is situated on the opposite bank of the River Conway just where it flows into the sea. It presents a magnificent aspect facing south and south-east, and has been given the title it well deserves "Sunny Deganwy."

Llandudno Junction, being recently added to the borough, is a most convenient centre for excursions by rail, motor, coach, cycle, or on foot, amid the most beautiful scenery, and for the most interesting places in North Wales.

LAUNCESTON.

FROM no town can the beauties of Cornwall be better explored than from Launceston, which is a delightful spot, either as a place of residence or a holiday resort.

The ancient Dunheved of the Cornish Borderland and old-time capital of Cornwall, stands on the Kensey near its junction with the Tamar, and is connected with Newquay by a bridge over the river. The town was formerly walled and possessed three gateways, but only one of these now remains.

The Castle, which is situated on a hill about 300 feet above the Kensey, is defended on two sides by a deep natural valley, but in spite of its strength it was captured on numerous occasions, and during the course of the Civil War of 1644-6 changed hands several times.

LOOE.

FOR sheer beauty of scenery, its glorious winding rivers and old-world charm, Looe is one of the most picturesque towns on the Cornish coast.

Cool in summer and warm in winter, Looe is the ideal holiday resort. Its greatest charm lies in the fact that it has remained unspoiled by modern development.

Looe is a yachting centre, a yacht being able to lie outside the harbour in perfect comfort. In addition to sea and river boating there is also some of the finest deep sea fishing in all Cornwall.

During the spring and summer months the Harbour offers a picturesque sight, when it is crowded with boats of all sizes, and the fine fishing fleet of over fifty motor-driven boats always attracts a great deal of interest.

Hannafore, a rapidly developing little resort, can be reached from East Looe by the ferry.

Bowls and Tennis are well provided for.

ST. IVES.

ST. IVES is a very charming little town, and its narrow streets and stone houses with their outer stairways make it one of the most picturesque places in the West of England.

It is rapidly becoming a most popular resort in both winter and summer, as its climate is bracing.

The lower part of the town is old-fashioned, but the higher part is quite modern, and it is here that the chief hotels and boarding-houses are situated, from the windows of many of which there are magnificent views across the bay.

ST. IVES BAY HOTEL

ST. IVES, CORNWALL

THE ST. IVES BAY HOTEL enjoys an unrivalled situation on the sea front, overlooking Porthminster Beach and commanding an extensive view of the whole of St. Ives Bay and surrounding cliffs.

It is three minutes from the railway station, faces the bathing beach, and is conveniently near St. Ives Tennis Courts while the bus affording access to the 18-hole links of the West Cornwall Golf Club stops at the Hotel to pick up passengers. All bedrooms have hot and cold water service, and there is electric light everywhere. Central heating and unimpeachable sanitary arrangements are notable features, and there are bathrooms on all corridors.

There are two handsome Lounges, Drawing and Smoke Rooms: one of the former finds great favour for Dances. Our own garage—lock-ups, and the Hotel is on the list of Hotels appointed by the A.A. and R.A.C.

DORCHESTER.

DORCHESTER, the capital of Dorset, is noted for its long promenades and avenue-like boulevards, and was one of the largest centres during the Roman occupation of Britain. An almost perfect amphitheatre capable of seating 13,000 persons, is situated just outside the town, while about two miles distant is Maiden Castle, a Roman hill camp.

The late Thomas Hardy, who immortalised this part of the country in his novels, lived at Max Gate, and his birthplace at Lower Bockhampton is a place of interest for visitors.

Between Weymouth and Dorchester is an 18-hole golf course, said to be one of the finest inland courses in the kingdom.

EASTBOURNE.

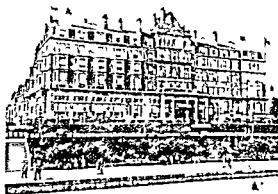

EASTBOURNE is essentially a modern health and pleasure resort, and the town only began to assume any size or repute about sixty or seventy years ago. Since then, however, its growth has been rapid and continuous. The general planning of the borough is on excellent and modern lines, as is shown in its broad residential avenues, the appropriate situation of the chief public buildings, the beauty and ingenuity of design of its sea-front, and its fine hotels and boarding-houses. To this galaxy is added the natural background of the glorious range of South Downs.

Harrogate

Is one of the finest Spas and Health and Pleasure Resorts in Europe.

As a SPA it claims supremacy over all the Spas of the world by virtue of having no less than 88 different mineral waters, and a most elaborate and completely-equipped Bathing Establishment, with a Staff of upwards of 200 Medical Trained and Medically certificated male and female nurses. It is really a compendium of the World's Spas.

As a HEALTH RESORT it is famed for its remarkably pure and bracing air, its fine shops and residences, its open spaces, parks, high-class amusements and entertainments, and last, but not least, its proximity to some of Great Britain's most famous and historic Abbeys, Castles, and Country Mansions.

As a MOTORING district it is unequalled, the wide roads, the open moors, and the exquisite beauty spots in the district provide a fresh run for almost every day for weeks.

As to the TOWN itself, nothing is wanting to minister to the needs of those who love the gaieties of life; or, on the contrary, if a quiet, restful time be needed, then Harrogate, with its open moors creeping up to the outskirts of the town, will provide the mental rest and physical well-being needed by the seeker after health and peace.

Hastings and St. Leonards.

DELIGHTFULLY situated on the East Sussex coast, the twin town of Hastings and St. Leonards has an equable climate, being mild in winter and cool in summer.

There is a constant round of amusements provided by the Town Council at all times of the year. The classical and popular concerts are well known, and there is a spacious Band Promenade on the shore end of the Hastings Pier. In addition there is a theatre and numerous cinemas and ballrooms.

The Tennis and Bowls tournaments always have large entries, including many well-known players, and the Cricket Festival is also a popular event. Indeed, the attractions are so numerous that the holiday time passes all too quickly.

HEREFORD, which is situated in the beautiful Wye Valley, is the chief Shopping and Distributing centre of the Welsh Border.

The Cathedral is truly magnificent, and in its confines will be found the tomb of St. Ethelbert. The whole neighbourhood is rich in historical interest, and it was in the old market-place, within sight of the Norman Tower, that Owen Tudor was executed. Visitors should on no account miss the Vicar's College, the Guild House of the Incorporated Butchers, or St. Peter's Church, founded by Walter de Lacy.

In the lovely Wye Valley the holiday-maker can enjoy to the full the rural beauty of the wide-spreading pastures where the famous Herefordshire cattle graze, whilst every church possesses its legend, and every village its story.

LINCOLN.

Lincoln boasts of two fine hotels. The "White Hart" has a very ancient history closely connected with the Cathedral, and is situated practically within its precincts. Its old world quiet and comfort have been greatly improved by modern arrangements, and it is patronised by visitors from all parts of the world. The "Saracen's Head" is the largest and most up-to-date hotel in the whole county, although its appearance from the exterior probably has not altered materially since the days when coaches used to drive through the main entrance, and post chaises brought ladies to its hospitable doors

Lynton and Lynmouth.

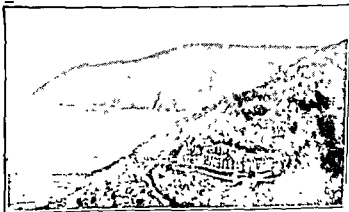

LYNTON AND LYNMOUTH, the twin gems of Devon, have changed little since the days when our fathers and grandfathers came and went in coaches. Indeed, the old mail coach can still be seen on the road, but for ordinary passenger traffic has had to give place to the modern motor coach. The district is saturated in beauty and legend, not the least of these being immortalised by Blackmore in "Lorna Doone." Whilst the beauties of the Twin Villages have remained unspoiled, and the beautiful lanes have saved them from the onslaught of huge char-a-bancs, the villages have advanced in catering for the needs of a discriminating public. Hunting and fishing are good, and visitors are made welcome with either the stag or foxhounds.

The creature comforts are well provided for by several good class hotels; amongst these in Lynton the Lee Abbey Hotel, with extensive grounds, overlooking and including the lovely Lee Bay, and at Lynmouth the Tors Hotel, which commands uninterrupted views of the sea and the River Lyn.

MINEHEAD.—To the holiday-maker, the sportsman, and the seeker after health or for a pleasant place of residence, Minehead, situate by the Severn Sea, offers distinctive allurements, the greatest of which, perhaps, is the glorious hinterland of Exmoor. Although a town with a long past, it has every modern amenity, and is clean, orderly, and well built. Climatic advantages—an equable temperature, and almost total absence of frost and snow. Health record excellent. Sports—Staghunting, fox, hare, and otter; polo (two grounds), golf, tennis, bowls, etc. Seaside pleasures, good beach and bathing, steamboat trips, first-class entertainment. PORTISHEAD.

PORTISHEAD, which faces south-west, is pleasantly situated on the Bristol Channel, about 12 miles distant from Bristol, on wooded slopes rising up from the sea. These woods and the many picturesque walks are attractive features of the town. There is also a large lake for boating, and the old Fort and grounds, which command good views inland and over the Channel, are open to the public for recreation. Swimming sports and competitions are held during August.

There is a good road motor service connecting Portishead with Redcliffe Bay and a light railway runs to Clevedon and Weston-super-Mare.

ROSS-ON-WYE.

Ross is a quaint old-fashioned town on the left bank of the River Wye, just within the southern boundary of Herefordshire in that attractive part of England bordering on Wales, where the counties of Gloucester, Monmouth, and Hereford adjoin.

It is built on a hill which rises boldly above the Wye, and commands a wide and beautiful extent of country. The river is here more than usually capricious in its course, and wreathes itself into a perfect garland round the green meadows which lie spread out before the rocky hill of Ross, which is crowned by the noble twelfth century Parish Church, the fine lofty spire of which looks as if placed there expressly to enhance the scene.

Ross is known as "the Gate of the Wye," the most beautiful river in England, and very famous for its salmon fishing. A good sporting locality, plenty of hunting, shooting, fishing, golf, tennis, etc.

The town is served by the G W R and is about three hours from London. Being a particularly healthy spot, it is not uncommon to find here people hale and hearty of eighty, ninety, and even a hundred years of age. There are a great many places of historic interest within easy reach, as may be imagined from the geographical position of the town on the Welsh border—that land of Castles, Abbeys, Mountains and Vales—but for beautiful scenery Ross, the Wye Valley and the neighbouring Royal Forest of Dean are amongst the finest in the Kingdom. The town and its generous benefactor, John Kyrle, have been immortalised by Pope in his "Ode to the Man of Ross."

It is impossible to condense the History of Sherborne in a small space, and in consequence we can only recommend those seeking a retreat in or near a charming old Historical Residential Town to pay a visit to Dorset and to Sherborne in particular.

There will be found many interests and attractions not generally found in other towns, such as the Abbey, Monastic Buildings, and Norman Castle Ruins.

For EDUCATION it ranks with the best, the Boys' School being one of the great Public Schools of England, there being also a Girls' School of almost equal importance, in addition to which are Preparatory and Secondary Schools.

For HUNTING it is the centre of the famous Blackmore Vale Hunt, and within easy reach of other Packs of Foxhounds and Harriers.

SIDMOUTH, DEVON.

SALCOMBE HILL and Peak Hill giants of over five hundred feet in height have a treasure to guard in Sidmouth which lies between their arms sheltered from all winds except only the kindly south warming in the winter and cooling in the summer blowing directly off the sea. Nobody who has not visited Sidmouth, can conceive the charm of the fashionable little town in its natural basin, looking out over the Channel, with its old world gardens and Georgian houses, its countless evergreen trees its blue gums, magnolias, fuchsias, dracaenas, a galaxy of sub tropical foliage and flowers revelling in the brilliant sunshine. Sidmouth has a warm welcome for visitors but has never tried to attract trippers. There are ample amusements for her guests, and a plenitude of natural charms, delightful walks in all directions, safe bathing, even temperature, almost entire absence of snow and fogs, very little frost, low rainfall, pure soft water, excellent sea fishing, beagling, fox and otter hunting and extremely good shooting good cricket and football, croquet and tennis and a wonderfully situated 18-hole golf course. In addition, Sidmouth is a centre for any part of Devon, and its popularity from the beginning of time is fittingly shown by the vast quantities of fossils of the antediluvian creatures, the sites of camps and flint implement factories of the early British and the fact that present-day visitors either return year after year or actually settle in the district.

TUNBRIDGE WELLS.

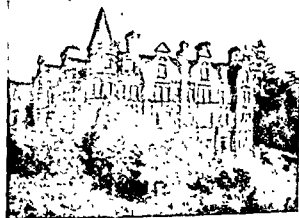

ONE of the most salubrious of inland resorts, Tunbridge Wells offers all the amenities and delights of the countryside with the advantages of a well-governed municipality. Situated on the borders of Kent and Sussex, at an altitude of about 400 feet above sea-level, it is in that beautiful district where the charms of the undulating Weald of the "Hop Country" mingle with those of the luxurious Sussex forest ridge. Its career as a fashionable health resort dates back for over three hundred years, the beneficial effect for its waters having been discovered by Lord North in the reign of James I.

The Chalybeate Water of "The Wells" is a most excellent tonic, and is dispensed from the Spring at the eastern end of the Pantiles by "dippers." For all those who complain of feeling "out-of-sorts" or "run-down" it is a most efficient "pick-me-up."

VENTNOR.

There are many reasons for visiting Ventnor. There is the sea, with its moods of beauty, its far horizon, its argosies of stately liners and merchant-men. There is the Front, with its hotels, boarding-houses, shops and ever-changing happy crowds. There is the Esplanade, broad, placid, beautiful, beneath the cliffs. There is the Town, with its terraced dwellings, its all-the-year blossom, its varied glimpses of the sea, its streets of business-houses, and its self-contained supply of all needed during a holiday. There are the Downs; high above all, with wealth of walk and pleasure and exhilaration and mighty panorama. And there is the Undercliff.

WOODHALL SPA.

THIS unique health resort, famous for its natural Bromo-Iodine mineral waters, is situate on the London and North Eastern Railway, midway between Boston and Lincoln. Situated on deep sandy subsoil, surrounded by Pine and Lily Woods, with a profusion of Heather and Ling, it makes an irresistible appeal to those needing rest from the strain of modern life, and those seeking relief from Rheumatism, Neuritis, etc., will find the treatment obtainable here unsurpassed in its curative properties. The bathing establishment is well equipped for all modern treatments, and is run by a very capable staff.

The climate is dry and equable, with a very large amount of Sunshine and a very small rainfall, the average is about 22 inches per annum. The average temperature is fairly constant about 48° Fahr., with no great extremes. The surrounding country is rich in objects of interest to the archaeologist, and the naturalist will find an inexhaustible wealth of material to investigate.

The roads are excellent for motoring and cycling; there is fishing and boating to be had in the vicinity, while those who are wanting tennis or golf are well catered for with plenty of good tennis courts and one of the finest sporting golf courses in the kingdom. There is an excellent cinema, and open-air music is provided near the Pump Room during the season.

Ample accommodation is provided by several well-run Hotels and Apartment Houses.

————— Moral Essays. Pope

THE story of "Schools" in England and Wales is one of a thousand years—of effort more or less continuous, more or less well-directed, widely spread over the Kingdom, and nowadays everywhere intensified as ideals appear more nearly within grasp. It speaks of how, in Alfred the Great's nursery of learning at Oxford, the Abbot Neot read divinity ; Asserius, the Benedictine, taught grammar and rhetoric ; John, a monk of St. David's, set up a chair for logic, arithmetic and music ; and Johannes Scotus professed geometry and astronomy.

A transformation, little short of marvellous when contrasted with educational conditions even of a hundred years ago, has been effected, however, although it is hardly possible to assign a positive share of influence in bringing about the changes to any one section of the agencies employed.

Oxford, having duly elected Professors in subjects from A to Z—from Anglo-Saxon to Zoology—still teaches the history which its University, Balliol, St. Edmund Hall, and Merton Colleges, helped to make six and a half centuries before, when Henry III was King. William Stubbs, Bishop of Oxford at the close of the 19th century, and Professor of Modern History from 1866 to 1884, was a valuable contributor in making advanced historical education a present-day reality ; and a worthy successor, Sir Charles Oman, K.B.E., M.A., Fellow of All Souls, and elected M.P. for Oxford University in 1919.

During the reigns of the later Plantagenets, the Lancastrian, Yorkist, Tudor and Stuart Lines, the Commonwealth régime, and the Houses of Orange and Brunswick—from the founding of Exeter, 1314 ; Oriel, 1326 ; Queen's, 1340 ; and New College (of which one of His Majesty King George V.'s ex-Ministers of Education is Warden) in 1386—to the founding in the Victorian Era of Keble, 1869, and Hertford, 1874—the University unceasingly multiplied its facilities, adding Colleges with each succeeding century of enhancing educational renown.

GLASGOW UNIVERSITY

Education in Scotland.

ABERDEEN UNIVERSITY

SCOTLAND lacks nothing that can rightly express the true idea contained in the word—Education. At every point the "act of educating" is fruitfully applied to drawing forth the powers implanted in man by his Maker. Frequently, for this reason, the casual utterance of a Scot reveals a warm corner in his heart for the Alma Mater.

The University, greatest to-day of the Scottish Universities, has much in common with St. Andrew's, Glasgow, and Aberdeen—the system of the four, under the constitution due to the arrangements of the Scottish University Commissioners in 1889, being entirely professional. No distinction is made as to creed, and women are admitted to degrees equally with men. Degrees are conferred in Arts, Science, Divinity, Law, Medicine and Music, the Faculty of Music being peculiar to Edinburgh. The conferments include also Bachelor of Commerce (B Com), Bachelor of Education (B Ed), Doctor of Philosophy (Ph D), and Doctor of Letters (D Litt).

The Royal High School, which originated in the Abbey of Holyrood in the 12th century, holds a unique position in the history of Scottish education. Since 1918, it has been ably administered by the Education Authority which controls nearly 100 of the city's Primary, Intermediate, and Special Schools.

Endowed schools of the Edinburgh Merchant Company, incorporated in 1681, comprise the Edinburgh Ladies', George Watson's (Ladies' and Boys'), and Daniel Stewart's Colleges, admittedly models of efficiency.

George Heriot's School, in one of the city's most imposing buildings erected under endowment of the famous goldsmith to James VI., and Heriot-Watt College, carry out admirable schemes of secondary and higher education under a Trust representative of various interests. Merchiston Castle School, dating from 1833—once the home of John Napier, the inventor of Logarithms—anticipates both the special and ordinary requirements of boys, adding to the usual appurtenances shops equipped for carpentering and metal-work. Fettes College, due to the munificence of Sir William Fettes, Bart., qualifies with a liberal curriculum for the Universities and professions.

St. George's School for Girls, removed from Melville Street in 1914, ensures private school tuition amidst ideal surroundings, and is a Training Centre of repute for professional careers. The Edinburgh Academy, established in 1824, and incorporated by Royal Charter of George IV., is one of the most noted Private Schools for Boys in Scotland. The Edinburgh Institution has more than trebled its emoluments since, in 1910, a limited company composed of "Old Boys" was formed for its administration. Loretto School, six miles from Edinburgh, represents the achieved aim to build up a public school on rational lines initiated by the late Hely Hutchinson Almond, LL D.

The high educational standards exemplified in Edinburgh and its environs are typical of all Scotland; friendly rivalry amongst pupils and tutors acting as an incentive to sustained application in accord with Scottish temperament. To the seemingly all-embracing facilities of the Capital are added those of Glasgow, Aberdeen, Dundee, Perth, Inverness and other centres. Highlands and Lowlands alike have colleges, schools, and institutions endowed, in several cases, by bequests of former citizens or burghers, and numbering amongst their quondam alumni some of Scotland's eminent sons. Mental equipment for every vocation is obtainable within Scottish borders, concurrently with physical development and training in competitive sports to which an invigorating climate materially contributes.

Glasgow University, despite its historic original building (a perfect example of Scottish architecture) having been destroyed to make room for a railway station, is, of course, world-known and as widely reputed, housing as it does, for one thing, the celebrated Hunterian Museum. Outstanding, besides, are the Royal Glasgow and West of Scotland Technical College attracting students from all quarters, and the well-known Art Schools. The latter perform valuable service to modern art, as does a full complement of scientific and general establishments in and around the city, to Clude-side industry and commerce, ocean navigation, and Scotland's educational routine.

Strathearn College, Edinburgh, is not only well-known as a residential School of Cookery and Domestic Science, but also as a place where the daughters of gentlemen can complete their education by studying "finishing" subjects.

Here, under the careful supervision of the Principal, Miss Mitchell, they have every home comfort. There is a good playing field, a private motor car, and plenty of social entertainments; good hunting can also be had. The terms are exceedingly moderate considering the amenities.

Mental equipment for every vocation is obtainable within Scottish borders, concurrently with physical development and training in competitive sports to which an invigorating climate materially contributes.

Glasgow University, despite its historic original building (a perfect example of Scottish architecture) having been destroyed to make room for a railway station, is, of course, world-known and as widely reputed, housing as it does, for one thing, the celebrated Hunterian Museum. Outstanding, besides, are the Royal Glasgow and West of Scotland Technical College attracting students from all quarters, and the well-known Art Schools. The latter perform valuable service to modern art, as does a full complement of scientific and general establishments in and around the city, to Cludeside industry and commerce, ocean navigation, and Scotland's educational routine.

Strathearn College, Edinburgh, is not only well-known as a residential School of Cookery and Domestic Science, but also as a place where the daughters of gentlemen can complete their education by studying "finishing" subjects.

Here, under the careful supervision of the Principal, Miss Mitchell, they have every home comfort. There is a good playing field, a private motor car, and plenty of social entertainments; good hunting can also be had. The terms are exceedingly moderate considering the amenities.

THE EDINBURGH & EAST of SCOTLAND COLLEGE of AGRICULTURE

PRINCIPAL: PROFESSOR ERNEST SHEARER, M.A., B.Sc.

The College provides:

1. Courses qualifying for the degrees of B.Sc. in Agriculture and Forestry
2. Two-year Diploma Course for intending farmers. Special facilities exist for training students who propose to go abroad
3. Courses in Dairying and in Horticulture

HOTEL DES ANGLAIS,

CANNES, A.M., FRANCE.

Address Telegrams: "ANGLAIS-CANNES."

Telephone: 2-25.

THE HOTEL DES ANGLAIS stands in an elevated position surrounded by a large and sunny garden in beautiful grounds with a wonderful view of the sea and the Esterel Mountains from the south room windows. It contains 120 rooms and 60 bathrooms. There is hot and cold running water and telephone in all the rooms, hot water heating throughout, kept at an even temperature day and night. Loggias have recently been added to many of the front rooms and the entire hotel has been re-

Painted and re-decorated. There are numerous suites of rooms, each consisting of private sitting room, one or more bedrooms and private bathroom, all self-contained and shut off from the main corridor so as to ensure absolute quiet, renowned cuisine and cellar, frigidaire in the basement for making fresh ice from pure water and for the provisions, private lock up garage and private motor-cars of the highest order can be supplied by applying to the hall porter, a motor bus service to and from the centre of the town, free of charge to the guests of the hotel.

The hotel is principally patronised by royalty and the élite of English and American society. Cannes is now becoming a favourite summer resort with its excellent sea bathing and other summer attractions.

THE HOTEL DES ANGLAIS is open all the year round.

HYÈRES.

HYÈRES, the southernmost resort on the Riviera, is often alluded to as the capital of the "New Riviera." This town, dating back as far as the 10th century, is full of historic interest. It is the oldest resort on the French Riviera and is particularly favoured by English people, of whom there is a considerable colony.

Hyères and its environs enjoy a mild dry climate sheltered from the north winds, and in consequence constitute a perfect health resort both in winter and summer, especially for convalescents and delicate children. There are specially organised establishments at Hyères for treatment by sea-water baths.

The old town, built on the slope of a steep hill is quaint and full of interest, with its crumbling walls, ruined towers and castles. The new town lies in the plain on the hill-side and is traversed by broad avenues lined with palms.

Situated at the Golf Hotel about $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles distant from the town, is a splendid 18-hole golf course while there is another at Costobelle. Both of these may be reached by the motor services. There is also good tennis, croquet and bowling.

MENTONE.

MENTONE, with a population of approximately 19,000, ranks third in importance among the cities of the French Riviera. This old town, the history of which dates back as far as the thirteenth century, resembles an immense amphitheatre with its buildings rising one above the other on the steep mountain slopes, attracting many artists by its suggestiveness of the Middle Ages.

Almost entirely surrounded by mountains, Mentone enjoys an extremely mild and equable climate even during the coldest months, while there is an entire absence of fogs and heavy dew. The harbour, which affords accommodation for yachts lies between the West Bay and the Bay of Garavan, and consists chiefly of a jetty with a lighthouse at the seaward end.

A fine 18-hole golf course at Sospel and a tennis and croquet club provide plenty of recreation, while interesting excursions can be made to various places of interest in the vicinity of Mentone which abounds in natural beauties.

Brissago.

Beautifully situated on the western shore of Lago Maggiore, lies in the midst of splendid Mediterranean and sub-tropical vegetation. This ancient town offers a delightful resting place for all who love the beauties of nature and a soft and soothing climate. Brissago, whose origin is lost in antiquity, is of Celtic origin, as is witnessed by two Romanesque Chapels on the Island not far away.

The town, situated some 715 feet above the sea, connects by steamer with Pattanza, and there is steamer and motor connection also with Locarno.

LAUSANNE.

CHARMINGLY situated on the shore of the Lake of Geneva, Lausanne is a picturesque old city of about 75,000 inhabitants. Its climate is healthy and invigorating, due no doubt to the moderating influence of the Lake, and visitors are always reluctant to leave this delightfully hospitable Swiss resort.

As an educational centre, Lausanne is unrivalled, and it is a favourite place for parents desiring to educate their children in the Alpine Republic.

Founded in 1537, the University has been enlarged from time to time, and is now one of the finest in the world. There are also numerous schools and colleges, and a Conservatoire of Music, which was established in 1861 and is under the direction of Mr Charles Troyon

The sportsman will find many attractions at Lausanne, and it is difficult to enumerate all the groups or societies devoted to games. There is a completely equipped Stadium, comprising in addition to its grand stand, tennis courts and a football field, and there are also Gymnastic and Fencing Societies and Swimming, Skating and Hockey Clubs

Montriond Le Crêt

Boarding School for Girls, LAUSANNE

Mrs. WELCH

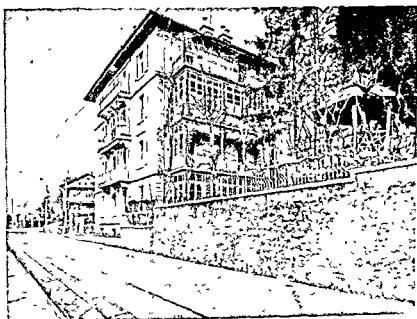

Mlle. CHENEVARD

MONTRIOND le Crêt is a thoroughly first class Institution for young girls eight to fourteen years old. The school buildings are healthily situated in their own large private grounds. Suitably laid out for the pupil's recreation—including two tennis courts—grounds for games and a physical training ground. The house is fitted out with every convenience (gymnasium, play room, modern bathrooms, hot and cold running water in bedrooms). The greatest care is given to health and physical development, regular medical supervision. A trained nurse is in charge of the children.

TUITION

THE Courses of study are arranged to meet the requirements of English and American Schools, so that pupils can subsequently enter the more advanced schools in their own country. It comprises the study of the French language, Literature, History, Natural History, Geography, Arithmetic, Algebra, English in all its subjects, Needlework, Drawing, Singing. The conversation is carried on exclusively in French.

INSTITUT FISHER

VEYTAUX - MONTREUX, LA SUISSE

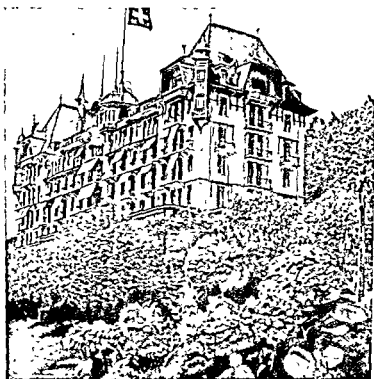

THIS is a boarding and day school for boys and girls, situated amid delightful scenery on the Lake Geneva, and overlooking the old Castle of Chillon.

Pupils are received between five and eighteen years, and there is a Kindergarten. The curriculum includes all the usual subjects, taught in English and French.

The pupils are prepared for the entrance examinations for the English, American and Swiss schools and Universities; those of the Oxford and Cambridge Examination Board; the London Matriculation; and the entrance examinations of the Public Schools.

The children enjoy a great deal of open-air life, including tennis, rowing, bathing, and all winter sports. Gymnastics, fencing and riding are also taught, as well as music, eurythmics, dancing, etc.

The extraordinary results obtained with Genzyme have definitely increased the average expectations of returns from land cultivation. An ideal balance, rich in nitrates, phosphoric acid, and pure potash, its manurial values are enormously reinforced by vital properties contained in no other fertilizer in the world. GENZYME assists seed germination, co-operates with soil bacteria, increasing root-growth and complete development of the plant without forcing, ensuring timely maturity and improved quality.

Texture and condition of heavy soil treated with GENZYME vastly improves, becoming completely friable—therefore easy to work—a permanent improvement visible to the naked eye. GENZYME attacks any arrested humus in the soil (which is generally responsible for sour conditions), breaking it down to carbonic acid. This acid, carried in the soil waters, dissolves the otherwise insoluble silicates, releasing the natural stores of plant food dormant in the soil.

Similarly, LIGHT soils become more fertile and retain water for the longer use of the plants.

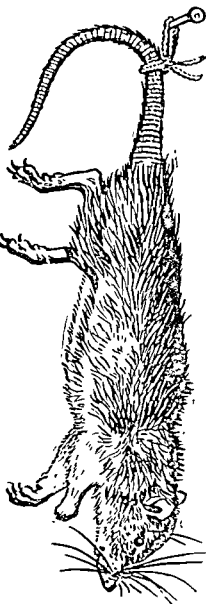

If you have not received our Descriptive Booklet for the season please write to the manufacturers:

ABOL

Humane Rat Killer

NOMORATS is a specific rat killer, inasmuch as its action depends upon the rat's own peculiar chemistry and anatomy, which differ from those of other animals. Rats and Mice eat Nomorats in preference to anything else, then rush into the open and die. One dose is sufficient and nothing can save them.

NOT A VIRUS.

There is no risk in using Nomorats for it is quite harmless to human beings, domestic animals and livestock. It does not contaminate foodstuffs or water.

HORTICULTURE.

BY

T. GEOFFREY W. HENSLOW, M.A., F.R.H.S.

(Author of "Garden Renovation," etc., etc.)

HE who tries to trace his ancestry back to Adam will without doubt be fully alive to the value of a garden and ready always to extol any and every craft connected with the horticultural world. Heredity is a most engrossing subject and one of which the present age is vastly ignorant. Had we greater knowledge of heredity there would be a stampede for Debrett. To be of good pedigree is a very valuable birthright and it should be cherished far more by men than it is to-day. Natural tendencies would be noted in family history and the good would be encouraged and the bad eschewed. The ancients, who were very keen on the improvement of race, paid great attention to pedigree. Horace, in one of his famous odes, calls the attention of a young nobleman to pedigree, and points out the fact that he had to help to make it.

OF PARAMOUNT IMPORTANCE.

As with the human race so with every kind of plant life ; pedigree is of paramount importance. The progeny, new varieties or species, take their habits and tendencies from their forbears, and successful cultivation comes only from a study of the characters of the parent plants. The raiser of novelties is well aware of this fact, and hence the slogan "pedigree stock" is so often found in horticultural trade catalogues. We look beyond plant life and come to manufactured articles, and we find that pedigree is as forcefully present. The brains of the individual, or oft-times the firm, are brought to bear for generations on the perfecting of some particular production which increases in quality as skill is improved and thought advances. To have been established a great number of years in an honourable position in the commercial world is the pride of any firm or any trader.

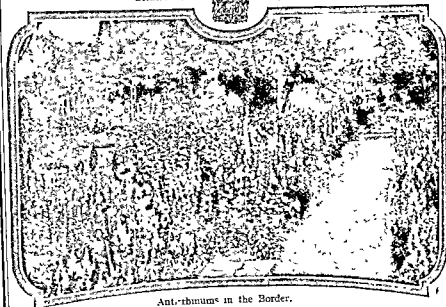

ROYAL WARRANT HOLDERS.

The Royal Warrant, a hall-mark of quality, is keenly sought after by those whose goods are of the highest order, and in appraising the qualities of articles we must appreciate the fact that we are paying tribute to the brains of the constructors. Horticultural craftsmen in wood, iron, stone or any other substance hold as big a position in the world as any other group of men famous for varied enterprises, and from their midst rise up experts who stand out among their fellows pre-eminent for quality of work and design. All pass on a valuable heritage and their goods are sought and acquired by the thoughtful and prudent in preference to those of the humble imitator who seeks only the favours of the hour.

HORTICULTURE OF UNIVERSAL INTEREST.

The horticultural trade of this country has very ancient history and its records are as perfect, if not more so, than those of any other country in the world. There is hardly a family in Debrett that has not in some way or another interested itself in the advancement of one or more of the varied pursuits of horticulture and its allied trades. After all, man is first a gardener, and if circumstances have precluded him from following or indulging in any of its attractions, yet the pristine tendency remains, and sooner or later the individual or descendant turns towards the most natural and engrossing of life's occupations.

EXCEPTIONAL PROGRESS.

Viewing trade generally, over a period of many years, it is patent to all that the horticultural industries of this country have progressed far beyond the advancement of most, and in periods of great national depression have proved to be one of the principal mainstays of the Empire. Its quick recovery after times of national disaster is proof of the quality of its upholders and if there is any truth in those words "breeding will tell," we find it evinced in the horticultural world of our own country both of to-day and in the past.

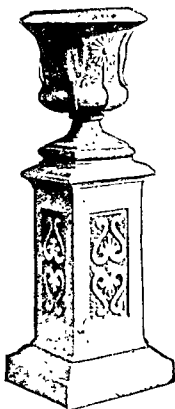

NEW CREATIONS AND INVENTIONS.

"Progress" is the motto of the horticultural trade, and if we attend any of the numerous shows held throughout the United Kingdom in its honour we always discover a wealth of novelties and fresh creations and inventions that testify to the energies of the trade. Such are milestones upon the road of commerce and add lustre to the name of the individual or firm who confer benefits upon existing generations and those to come.

The value of everything lies not so much in what it has achieved as it does in what it is still expected to effect, and until superseded it remains of interest to all concerned.

The Horticultural section of Debrett should grow to be one of its most important features and remain a valued reference for all who study its pages and rely upon it for information and recommendations that it has to offer. In placing our creations before the world we naturally choose the most likely market for our goods, and in matters horticultural the educated mind shows the greatest appreciation of development and enterprise.

To be in Debrett is to occupy an honoured position granted only to those who have achieved distinction amongst their fellow men in the varied walks of life. The word "advertisement" is exchanged for that of "record," and the accepted trader enrols his name or that of his firm midst pages that testify to a nation's worth. Such a notice carries with it the hallmark of quality, for not knowingly will Debrett admit of any announcement from a firm other than one of high standing and good repute.

To possess an honoured name in business is to the British trader a treasure beyond all price, and the wealthiest and poorest with this credential are on an equal footing with the noblest in the land.

The Horticultural and allied trades of Great Britain represent a very large section of a community that determines the welfare of the nation's commerce. Almost every industry is directly or indirectly connected with the horticultural world, and the prosperity of a country is most surely registered in the progress of its trades.

Horticulture is all embracing, it administers not only to the needs of life, but also its pleasures. The humble grain of wheat owed its origin to some nursery firm and seedsman, the mighty giant of the forest or the fruit tree of an orchard was cradled in the acres of a nursery, so, too, the beautiful flowers, plants and shrubs that ornament our gardens. The vegetable kingdom is very large, and both man and beast look to the horticultural world for supplies of seed and plants to keep them alive. If, however, we leave the realms of plant life and view the countless allied trades that are linked up to so great a field of commerce, we realise how great a debt we owe, each and all, to horticulture. The smallest sundry may have as important a part to play in our daily life as the largest and most expensive. In many respects a spade is just as important as a potato, and a plough as a grain of wheat.

GARDEN ARCHITECTURE

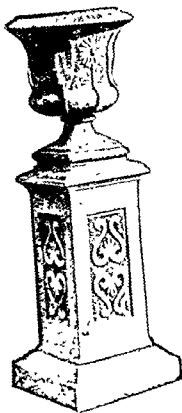

by T. Geoffrey W. Henslow, M.A., F.R.H.S.

THOSE who long for "a seat and pleasant nook" within their gardens will revel in Mr. Henslow's "Garden Architecture." By means of over a hundred exquisite sketches the book explains how gardens of various characters, periods and designs may be constructed.

Whether a Terraced Garden or Italian Garden is the dream of your desire, or whether the less pretentious Rock Garden or Herbaceous Garden is your aim, you will find "Garden Architecture" a sheer delight and inspiration.

ESTATE DUTIES.

LIFE Assurance provides an excellent means of obviating the disintegration of estates which frequently arises through the operation of death duties. Estate Duty is charged on the Principal Value of an Estate and ranges from one per cent. to forty per cent. For an Estate of from £25,000 to £30,000 the duty is ten per cent. rising rapidly with the increase in value. The Prudential Assurance Company Limited (the largest Insurance Institution in the British Empire) issues policies expressly designed to meet these duties and is prepared to endorse any new or existing policy to the effect that the whole or such part of the policy money as may be necessary shall be paid direct to the Inland Revenue before probate or letters of administration are obtained.

Moral Essays. Pope

THE story of "Schools" in England and Wales is one of a thousand years—of effort more or less continuous, more or less well-directed, widely spread over the Kingdom, and nowadays everywhere intensified as ideals appear more nearly within grasp. It speaks of how, in Alfred the Great's nursery of learning at Oxford, the Abbot Neot read divinity ; Asserius, the Benedictine, taught grammar and rhetoric ; John, a monk of St. David's, set up a chair for logic, arithmetic and music ; and Johannes Scotus professed geometry and astronomy.

A transformation, little short of marvellous when contrasted with educational conditions even of a hundred years ago, has been effected, however, although it is hardly possible to assign a positive share of influence in bringing about the changes to any one section of the agencies employed.

Oxford, having duly elected Professors in subjects from A to Z—from Anglo-Saxon to Zoology—still teaches the history which its University, Balliol, St Edmund Hall, and Merton Colleges, helped to make six and a half centuries before, when Henry III was King. William Stubbs, Bishop of Oxford at the close of the 19th century, and Professor of Modern History from 1866 to 1884, was a valuable contributor in making advanced historical education a present-day reality ; and a worthy successor, Sir Charles Oman, K.B.E., M.A., Fellow of All Souls, and elected M.P. for Oxford University in 1919.

During the reigns of the later Plantagenets, the Lancastrian, Yorkist, Tudor and Stuart Lines, the Commonwealth régime, and the Houses of Orange and Brunswick—from the founding of Exeter, 1314 ; Oriel, 1326 ; Queen's, 1340 ; and New College (of which one of His Majesty King George V.'s ex-Ministers of Education is Warden) in 1386—to the founding in the Victorian Era of Keble, 1869, and Hertford, 1874—the University unceasingly multiplied its facilities, adding Colleges with each succeeding century of enhancing educational renown.

GLASGOW UNIVERSITY

Education in Scotland.

ABERDEEN UNIVERSITY

SCOTLAND lacks nothing that can rightly express the true idea contained in the word—Education. At every point the "act of educating" is fruitfully applied to drawing forth the powers implanted in man by his Maker. Frequently, for this reason, the casual utterance of a Scot reveals a warm corner in his heart for the Alma Mater.

The University, greatest to-day of the Scottish Universities, has much in common with St Andrew's, Glasgow, and Aberdeen—the system of the four, under the constitution due to the arrangements of the Scottish University Commissioners in 1889, being entirely professional. No distinction is made as to creed, and women are admitted to degrees equally with men. Degrees are conferred in Arts, Science, Divinity, Law, Medicine and Music, the Faculty of Music being peculiar to Edinburgh. The conferments include also Bachelor of Commerce (B Com), Bachelor of Education (B Ed), Doctor of Philosophy (Ph D), and Doctor of Letters (D Litt).

The Royal High School, which originated in the Abbey of Holyrood in the 12th century, holds a unique position in the history of Scottish education. Since 1918, it has been ably administered by the Education Authority which controls nearly 100 of the city's Primary, Intermediate, and Special Schools.

Endowed schools of the Edinburgh Merchant Company, incorporated in 1681, comprise the Edinburgh Ladies, George Watson's (Ladies and Boys'), and Daniel Stewart's Colleges, admittedly models of efficiency.

George Heriot's School, in one of the city's most imposing buildings erected under endowment of the famous goldsmith to James VI, and Heriot-Watt College, carry out admirable schemes of secondary and higher education under a Trust representative of various interests. Merchiston Castle School, dating from 1833—once the home of John Napier, the inventor of Logarithms—anticipates both the special and ordinary requirements of boys, adding to the usual appurtenances shops equipped for carpentering and metal-work. Fettes College, due to the munificence of Sir William Fettes, Bart., qualifies with a liberal curriculum for the Universities and professions.

St. George's School for Girls, removed from Melville Street in 1914, ensures private school tuition amidst ideal surroundings, and is a Training Centre of repute for professional careers. The Edinburgh Academy, established in 1824, and incorporated by Royal Charter of George IV, is one of the most noted Private Schools for Boys in Scotland. The Edinburgh Institution has more than trebled its emoluments since, in 1910, a limited company composed of "Old Boys" was formed for its administration. Loretto School, six miles from Edinburgh, represents the achieved aim to build up a public school on rational lines initiated by the late Hely Hutchinson Almond, LL.D.

The high educational standards exemplified in Edinburgh and its environs are typical of all Scotland; friendly rivalry amongst pupils and tutors acting as an incentive to sustained application in accord with Scottish temperament. To the seemingly all-embracing facilities of the Capital are added those of Glasgow, Aberdeen, Dundee, Perth, Inverness and other centres. Highlands and Lowlands alike have colleges, schools, and institutions endowed, in several cases, by bequests of former citizens or burghers, and numbering amongst their quondam alumni some of Scotland's eminent sons. Mental equipment for every vocation is obtainable within Scottish borders, concurrently with physical development and training in competitive sports to which an invigorating climate materially contributes.

Glasgow University, despite its historic original building (a perfect example of Scottish architecture) having been destroyed to make room for a railway station, is, of course, world-known and as widely reputed, housing as it does, for one thing, the celebrated Hunterian Museum. Outstanding, besides, are the Royal Glasgow and West of Scotland Technical College attracting students from all quarters, and the well-known Art Schools. The latter perform valuable service to modern art, as does a full complement of scientific and general establishments in and around the city, to Cludeside industry and commerce, ocean navigation, and Scotland's educational routine.

Strathearn College, Edinburgh, is not only well-known as a residential School of Cookery and Domestic Science, but also as a place where the daughters of gentlemen can complete their education by studying "finishing" subjects.

Here, under the careful supervision of the Principal, Miss Mitchell, they have every home comfort. There is a good playing field, a private motor car, and plenty of social entertainments, good hunting can also be had. The terms are exceedingly moderate considering the amenities.

MENTONE.

MENTONE, with a population of approximately 19,000, ranks third in importance among the cities of the French Riviera. This old town, the history of which dates back as far as the thirteenth century, resembles an immense amphitheatre with its buildings rising one above the other on the steep mountain slopes, attracting many artists by its suggestiveness of the Middle Ages.

Almost entirely surrounded by mountains, Mentone enjoys an extremely mild and equable climate even during the coldest months, while there is an entire absence of fogs and heavy dew. The harbour, which affords accommodation for yachts, lies between the West Bay and the Bay of Garavan, and consists chiefly of a jetty with a lighthouse at the seaward end.

A fine 18-hole golf course at Sospel, and a tennis and croquet club provide plenty of recreation, while interesting excursions can be made to various places of interest in the vicinity of Mentone which abounds in natural beauties.

Beautifully situated on the western shore of Lago Maggiore, lies in the midst of splendid Mediterranean and sub-tropical vegetation. This ancient town offers a delightful resting place for all who love the beauties of nature and a soft and soothing climate. Brissago, whose origin is lost in antiquity, is of Celtic origin, as is witnessed by two Romanesque Chapels on the Island not far away.

The town, situated some 715 feet above the sea, connects by steamer with Pattanza, and there is steamer and motor connection also with Locarno.

LAUSANNE.

CHARMINGLY situated on the shore of the Lake of Geneva, Lausanne is a picturesque old city of about 75,000 inhabitants. Its climate is healthy and invigorating, due no doubt to the moderating influence of the Lake, and visitors are always reluctant to leave this delightfully hospitable Swiss resort.

As an educational centre, Lausanne is unrivalled, and it is a favourite place for parents desiring to educate their children in the Alpine Republic.

Founded in 1537, the University has been enlarged from time to time, and is now one of the finest in the world. There are also numerous schools and colleges, and a Conservatoire of Music, which was established in 1861 and is under the direction of Mr Charles Troyon.

The sportsman will find many attractions at Lausanne, and it is difficult to enumerate all the groups or societies devoted to games. There is a completely equipped Stadium, comprising in addition to its grand stand, tennis courts and a football field, and there are also Gymnastic and Fencing Societies and Swimming, Skating and Hockey Clubs.

Montriond Le Crêt

Boarding School for Girls, LAUSANNE

Mrs. WELCH

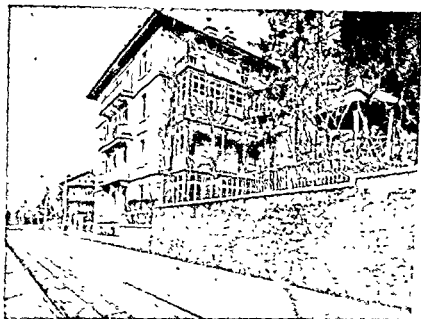

Mlle. CHENEVARD

MONTRIOND le Crêt is a thoroughly first class Institution for young girls eight to fourteen years old. The school buildings are healthily situated in their own large private grounds. Suitably laid out for the pupil's recreation—including two tennis courts—grounds for games and a physical training ground. The house is fitted out with every convenience (gymnasium, play room, modern bathrooms, hot and cold running water in bedrooms). The greatest care is given to health and physical development, regular medical supervision. A trained nurse is in charge of the children.

TUITION

THE Courses of study are arranged to meet the requirements of English and American Schools, so that pupils can subsequently enter the more advanced schools in their own country. It comprises the study of the French Language, Literature, History, Natural History, Geography, Arithmetic, Algebra, English in all its subjects, Needlework, Drawing, Singing. The conversation is carried on exclusively in French.

INSTITUT FISHER

VEYTAUX - MONTREUX, LA SUISSE

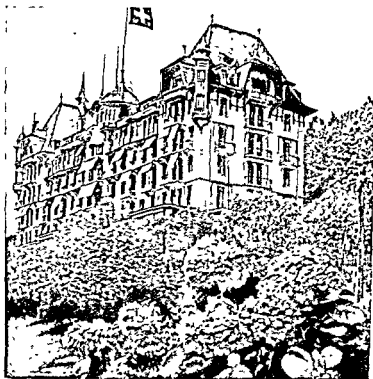

THIS is a boarding and day school for boys and girls, situated amid delightful scenery on the Lake Geneva, and overlooking the old Castle of Chillon.

Pupils are received between five and eighteen years, and there is a Kindergarten. The curriculum includes all the usual subjects, taught in English and French.

The pupils are prepared for the entrance examinations for the English, American and Swiss schools and Universities; those of the Oxford and Cambridge Examination Board; the London Matriculation; and the entrance examinations of the Public Schools.

The children enjoy a great deal of open-air life, including tennis, rowing, bathing, and all winter sports. Gymnastics, fencing and riding are also taught, as well as music, eurythmics, dancing, etc.

Note

by

T. Geoffroy
W. Henslow,
M.A. F.R.S.

The extraordinary results obtained with Genzyme have definitely increased the average expectations of returns from land cultivation. An ideal balance, rich in nitrates, phosphoric acid, and pure potash, its manurial values are enormously reinforced by vital properties contained in no other fertilizer in the world. GENZYME assists seed germination, co-operates with soil bacteria, increasing root-growth and complete development of the plant without forcing, ensuring timely maturity and improved quality.

Texture and condition of heavy soil treated with GENZYME vastly improves, becoming completely friable—therefore easy to work—a permanent improvement visible to the naked eye. GENZYME attacks any arrested humus in the soil (which is generally responsible for sour conditions), breaking it down to carbonic acid. This acid, carried in the soil waters, dissolves the otherwise insoluble silicates, releasing the natural stores of plant food dormant in the soil.

Similarly, LIGHT soils become more fertile and retain water for the longer use of the plants.

If you have not received our Descriptive Booklet for the season please write to the manufacturers:

Nomorats

ABOL

Humane Rat Killer

NOMORATS is a specific rat killer, inasmuch as its action depends upon the rat's own peculiar chemistry and anatomy, which differ from those of other animals. Rats and Mice eat Nomorats in preference to anything else, then rush into the open and die. One dose is sufficient and nothing can save them.

NOT A VIRUS.

There is no risk in using Nomorats for it is quite harmless to human beings, domestic animals and livestock. It does not contaminate foodstuffs or water.

HORTICULTURE.

BY

T. GEOFFREY W. HENSLOW, M.A., F.R.H.S.

(Author of "Garden Renovation," etc., etc.)

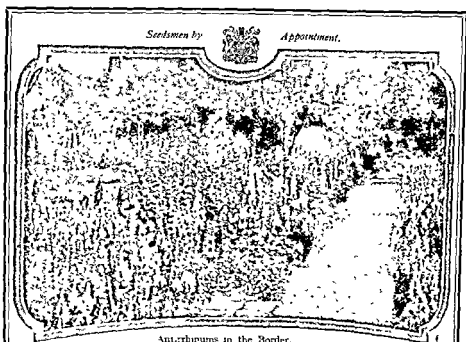

HE who tries to trace his ancestry back to Adam will without doubt be fully alive to the value of a garden and ready always to extol any and every craft connected with the horticultural world. Heredity is a most engrossing subject and one of which the present age is vastly ignorant. Had we greater knowledge of heredity there would be a stampede for Debrett. To be of good pedigree is a very valuable birthright and it should be cherished far more by men than it is to-day. Natural tendencies would be noted in family history and the good would be encouraged and the bad eschewed. The ancients, who were very keen on the improvement of race, paid great attention to pedigree. Horace, in one of his famous odes, calls the attention of a young nobleman to pedigree, and points out the fact that he had to help to make it.

OF PARAMOUNT IMPORTANCE.

As with the human race so with every kind of plant life ; pedigree is of paramount importance. The progeny, new varieties or species, take their habits and tendencies from their forbears, and successful cultivation comes only from a study of the characters of the parent plants. The raiser of novelties is well aware of this fact, and hence the slogan "pedigree stock" is so often found in horticultural trade catalogues. We look beyond plant life and come to manufactured articles, and we find that pedigree is as forcefully present. The brains of the individual, or oft-times the firm, are brought to bear for generations on the perfecting of some particular production which increases in quality as skill is improved and thought advances. To have been established a great number of years in an honourable position in the commercial world is the pride of any firm or any trader.

ROYAL WARRANT HOLDERS.

The Royal Warrant, a hall-mark of quality, is keenly sought after by those whose goods are of the highest order, and in appraising the qualities of articles we must appreciate the fact that we are paying tribute to the brains of the constructors. Horticultural craftsmen in wood, iron, stone or any other substance hold as big a position in the world as any other group of men famous for varied enterprises, and from their midst rise up experts who stand out among their fellows pre-eminent for quality of work and design. All pass on a valuable heritage and their goods are sought and acquired by the thoughtful and prudent in preference to those of the humble imitator who seeks only the favours of the hour.

HORTICULTURE OF UNIVERSAL INTEREST.

The horticultural trade of this country has very ancient history and its records are as perfect, if not more so, than those of any other country in the world. There is hardly a family in Debrett that has not in some way or another interested itself in the advancement of one or more of the varied pursuits of horticulture and its allied trades. After all, man is first a gardener, and if circumstances have precluded him from following or indulging in any of its attractions, yet the pristine tendency remains, and sooner or later the individual or descendant turns towards the most natural and engrossing of life's occupations.

EXCEPTIONAL PROGRESS.

Viewing trade generally, over a period of many years, it is patent to all that the horticultural industries of this country have progressed far beyond the advancement of most, and in periods of great national depression have proved to be one of the principal mainstays of the Empire. Its quick recovery after times of national disaster is proof of the quality of its upholders and if there is any truth in those words "breeding will tell," we find it evinced in the horticultural world of our own country both of to-day and in the past.

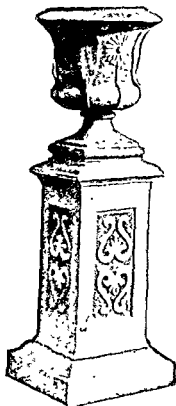

NEW CREATIONS AND INVENTIONS.

"Progress" is the motto of the horticultural trade, and if we attend any of the numerous shows held throughout the United Kingdom in its honour we always discover a wealth of novelties and fresh creations and inventions that testify to the energies of the trade. Such are milestones upon the road of commerce and add lustre to the name of the individual or firm who confer benefits upon existing generations and those to come.

The value of everything lies not so much in what it has achieved as it does in what it is still expected to effect, and until superseded it remains of interest to all concerned.

The Horticultural section of Debrett should grow to be one of its most important features and remain a valued reference for all who study its pages and rely upon it for information and recommendations that it has to offer. In placing our creations before the world we naturally choose the most likely market for our goods, and in matters horticultural the educated mind shows the greatest appreciation of development and enterprise.

Horticulture—continued.

To be in Debrett is to occupy an honoured position granted only to those who have achieved distinction amongst their fellow men in the varied walks of life. The word "advertisement" is exchanged for that of "record," and the accepted trader enrols his name or that of his firm midst pages that testify to a nation's worth. Such a notice carries with it the hallmark of quality, for not knowingly will Debrett admit of any announcement from a firm other than one of high standing and good repute.

To possess an honoured name in business is to the British trader a treasure beyond all price, and the wealthiest and poorest with this credential are on an equal footing with the noblest in the land.

The Horticultural and allied trades of Great Britain represent a very large section of a community that determines the welfare of the nation's commerce. Almost every industry is directly or indirectly connected with the horticultural world, and the prosperity of a country is most surely registered in the progress of its trades.

Horticulture is all embracing, it administers not only to the needs of life, but also its pleasures. The humble grain of wheat owed its origin to some nursery firm and seedsman, the mighty giant of the forest or the fruit tree of an orchard was cradled in the acres of a nursery, so, too, the beautiful flowers, plants and shrubs that ornament our gardens. The vegetable kingdom is very large, and both man and beast look to the horticultural world for supplies of seed and plants to keep them alive. If, however, we leave the realms of plant life and view the countless allied trades that are linked up to so great a field of commerce, we realise how great a debt we owe, each and all, to horticulture. The smallest sundry may have as important a part to play in our daily life as the largest and most expensive. In many respects a spade is just as important as a potato, and a plough as a grain of wheat.

A Book for Garden Lovers.

GARDEN ARCHITECTURE

by T. Geoffrey W. Henslow, M.A., F.R.H.S.

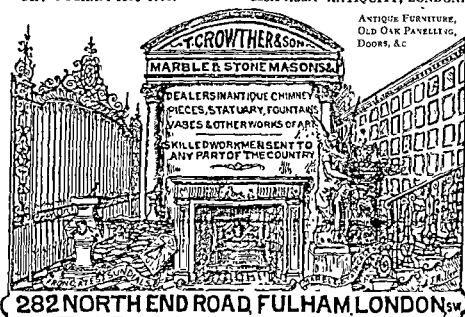

THOSE who long for "a seat and pleasant nook" within their gardens will revel in Mr. Henslow's "Garden Architecture." By means of over a hundred exquisite sketches the book explains how gardens of various characters, periods and designs may be constructed.

Whether a Terraced Garden or Italian Garden is the dream of your desire, or whether the less pretentious Rock Garden or Herbaceous Garden is your aim, you will find "Garden Architecture" a sheer delight and inspiration.

EXECUTORSHIP

The Westminster Bank will act either alone or jointly as an Executor or Trustee. Whereas a friend named as executor may die before the testator, the Bank is, so to speak, immortal, and is able to provide, amongst other advantages, the notable benefit of continuity in management. In carrying out these duties the Bank endeavours to put itself as far as possible in the position of a private Trustee, and is always prepared to employ the family solicitor. A book giving conditions of appointment may be obtained at Head

Office, at any Branch, or from the Trustee

ESTATE DUTIES.

*L*IFE Assurance provides an excellent means of obviating the disintegration of estates which frequently arises through the operation of death duties. Estate Duty is charged on the Principal Value of an Estate and ranges from one per cent. to forty per cent. For an Estate of from £25,000 to £30,000 the duty is ten per cent. rising rapidly with the increase in value. The Prudential Assurance Company Limited (the largest Insurance Institution in the British Empire) issues policies expressly designed to meet these duties and is prepared to endorse any new or existing policy to the effect that the whole or such part of the policy money as may be necessary shall be paid direct to the Inland Revenue before probate or letters of administration are obtained.

Let "PERMUTIT" work its miracle for you

The "Permutit"
Water Softener.

THE DAILY MIRACLE of changing hard, lime-laden Tap Water into soft, pure, healthful water, without chemicals, labour or mechanism, at an infinitesimal cost.

JUST a slender steel cylinder containing "Permutit," attached to the water main of any House, Hotel, Institution or Factory, will give that building an unlimited supply of the softest purest water for drinking, cooking, toilet, baths, hot water system, laundry, boilers, and all other domestic or industrial purposes.

THE "PERMUTIT" household Water Softener takes up little more room than an umbrella stand, and to run it costs no more than your newspaper. It pays for itself by saving 50% of your soap, soda, tea, and other household materials, and so gives you the precious boon of increased health and comfort for nothing

KIA-ORA LEMON ORANGE

The refreshing, smooth flavour of the fine lemon juice from which Kia-Oran Lemon is made, is quite distinctive. It is the perfect apéritif because it cleanses the palate and so accentuates the appreciation of good wines; it is a cooling antidote to the heated atmosphere of the ballroom.

Kia-Oran Orange is made from the juice of the finest oranges—a flavour which is increasingly praised for its subtle freshness. Slightly sweeter than the Lemon, Kia-Oran is especially attractive to young people.

Both Kia-Oran Lemon and Orange are excellent for cocktails requiring the addition of these fruit juices—they may also be obtained unsweetened for use in dry cocktails.

KIA-ORA LTD. will be happy to send a copy of their Cocktail
Recipe Book on request.

Kia-Oran Lemon and Orange are obtainable at most Restaurants, Clubs, etc

attractiveness means a great deal to the present-day

WOMAN

MANY THOUSANDS OF CASES TREATED

Every day more and more women are regaining their lost looks and attractiveness through the wonders of Mr. John C. Bell's original special scientific methods of Treatment.

Acknowledged to be England's greatest authority for the removal of all facial imperfections, including Loss of Contour, Sagging Cheeks, Wrinkles and Looseness under and over the eyes, Lines from nose to mouth. Frowns eliminated, Saddle Noses, Outstanding Ears, and any facial blemishes permanently corrected in from 1 to 3 visits.

Mr. Bell gives great attention to the artistic side of his work in order that the natural expression of the face shall be perfectly maintained.

Dr. J. Addison Wilson,
August 12th, 1924 :

"I have much pleasure in stating that I have known Mr. John C. Bell ever since 1903 as highly skilled in his profession and a gentleman."

Personal attention given to every patient.

Consultations free
By appointment only

Dr. William Ash, M.R.C.S.
Sept. 9th, 1906 :

"I have known Mr. John C. Bell for many years, and he has always proved himself to be a most careful and able operator and a most reliable and experienced man. He is entitled for his services."
